

“When students come back after graduation – when they share their stories of success and you realize that you’ve played a part in some way – that’s what makes it special.”

- Tony Basilico, Professor – Computer Studies

When asked what drives him to teach, Professor Basilico stresses the importance of his students’ success above all else. Basilico clearly takes great pride in turning out well-prepared individuals from his classes, as evidenced by the plaque of appreciation in the corner of his office given to him by a former student. Many of Basilico’s students are working professionals who turn to CCRI for a chance to stay ahead in technology; he is dedicated to offering the newest and best to his students. “CCRI is always ahead of the curve in technology,” he says. “We never send a student out into the workforce with outdated skills, and with the fast-paced change in technology, that’s critical to their success.”

Professor Basilico is just one of hundreds of dedicated faculty members at CCRI waiting to share their experiences with you. Register now for Spring classes starting January 18.

Warwick • Lincoln • Providence • Newport County

Call 825-2003 or visit us online at www.ccri.edu for enrollment information.

Community College of Rhode Island